Dear Friends,

I hope all is well with you.

As you may already know, from 2021 Peace One Day is marking four critical days in the global calendar: 21 March, 21 June, 21 September and 21 December, each with deep significance in relation to seasonal change. Each of these key stations of the year will play host to a live digital event, each providing a platform for discussion and action around issues of global concern:

21 March, “Anti-Racism Live”

21 June, “Climate Action Live”

21 September, “Peace Day Live”

21 December, “Space Transformers Live”

I’m delighted to let you know that our plans for Climate Action Live on 21 June are coming together in an exciting way. This will be a dynamic event that facilitates high-level conversations and sets out practical action points for individuals and organisations to engage with Climate Action. We are honoured and humbled by all the participants involved, click here to find the latest line-up, more information on the broadcast and a free education resource will be available to parents and teachers for the day.

Climate Action Live is being made possible by our incredible sponsors Lipton and Trivium Packaging, and also our wonderful partners – The Pathfinders for Peaceful, Just and Inclusive Societies; SDG Global Action Campaign; Peace Innovation Lab at Stanford University and the city of The Hague.

You can watch the Climate Action Live broadcast for free by registering at peaceoneday.org to become a part of the community and stay updated on these exciting experiences! You can also watch the broadcast via the Peace One Day Twitter account.

Please do follow us on social media and if you're doing anything to observe 21 June with us, please let us know by using the hashtags:
